The program ensures the acquisition of all the necessary competencies for the training of highly qualified personnel capable of identifying and assessing threats to national and industrial economic security, large companies and corporations, as well as countering the identified threats in the financial and economic sectors. The development of economic security of macro- and microsystems requires specialists with relevant modern competencies. To ensure economic security in the context of digitalization, special attention is required to special IT disciplines. The program provides unique skills in financial intelligence and combating money laundering (legalization) of criminal proceeds and terrorism financing.
